23           lowing:

24                   “(25) To develop and implement methods of re-25                   ducing crime in communities, to supplant punitive

1 programs or policies. For purposes of this para-2 graph, a punitive program or policy is a program or 3 policy that (A) imposes a penalty described in sec-4 tion 41415(b) of the Violence Against Women Act of 5 1994 on the basis of a request for law enforcement
 6 or emergency assistance; or (B) imposes a penalty
 7 described in section 41415(b) of the Violence
 8 Against Women Act of 1994 on a landlord, home-9 owner, tenant, resident, occupant, or guest because 10 of criminal activity at the property, including domes-

4 TITLE VII—ECONOMIC SECURITY
5 FOR VICTIMS

6 SEC. 701. FINDINGS.

7           Congress finds the following:

8           (1) More than 1 in 3 women and nearly 1 in 9           3 men experience sexual violence, and 1 in 5 women
10          have survived completed or attempted rape. Such violence has a devastating impact on women’s physical 11          and emotional health, financial security, and ability 12          to maintain their jobs, and thus impacts interstate 13          commerce and economic security.
14

15          (2) The Office on Violence Against Women of 16          the Department of Justice defines domestic violence
17          as a pattern of abusive behavior in any relationship 18          that is used by one intimate partner to gain or 19          maintain power and control over another intimate 20          partner. Domestic violence can include physical, sexual, 21          emotional, economic, or psychological actions or 22          threats of actions that influence another person. Domestic violence includes any behaviors that intimidate, 23          manipulate, humiliate, isolate, frighten, ter-
24

1       rorize, coerce, threaten, blame, hurt, injure, or 2       wound an individual.

3           (3) The Centers for Disease Control and Pre-
4       vention report that domestic violence or intimate 5       partner violence is a serious public health issue for 6       millions of individuals in the United States. Nearly 7       1 in 4 women and 1 in 9 men in the United States 8       have suffered sexual violence, physical violence, or 9       stalking by an intimate partner.

10          (4) Transgender and gender non-conforming
11       people face extraordinary levels of physical and sex-12       ual violence.

13          (5) More than 1 in 4 transgender people have 14       faced bias-driven assault, and this rate is higher for 15       trans women and trans people of color.

16          (6) The American Foundation for Suicide Pre-17       vention has found that transgender and gender non-18       conforming people had an elevated prevalence of sui-19       cide attempts, especially when they have suffered 20       physical or sexual violence.

21          (7) Homicide is one of the leading causes of 22       death for women on the job. Domestic partners or 23       relatives commit 43 percent of workplace homicides
24       against women. One study found that intimate part-25       ner violence resulted in 142 homicides among women

1 at work in the United States from 2003 to 2008, a 2 figure which represents 22 percent of the 648 work-3 place homicides among women during the period. In 4 fact, in 2010, homicides against women at work in-5 creased by 13 percent despite continuous declines in 6 overall workplace homicides in recent years.

7 (8) Women in the United States are 25 times
8 more likely to be murdered with guns than women 9 in other high-income countries. Female intimate 10 partners are more likely to be murdered with a fire-11 arm than all other means combined. The presence of 12 a gun in domestic violence situations increases the 13 risk of homicide for women by 500 percent.

14 (9) Violence can have a dramatic impact on the 15 survivor of such violence. Studies indicate that 44 16 percent of surveyed employed adults experienced the 17 effect of domestic violence in the workplace, and 64 18 percent indicated their workplace performance was 19 affected by such violence. Another recent survey 20 found that 78 percent of offenders used workplace 21 resources to express anger, check up on, pressure, or 22 threaten a survivor. Sexual assault, whether occur-
23 ring in or out of the workplace, can impair an em-24 ployee's work performance, require time away from 25 work, and undermine the employee's ability to main-

1       tain a job. Nearly 50 percent of sexual assault sur-2       vivors lose their jobs or are forced to quit in the 3       aftermath of the assaults.

4           (10) Studies find that 60 percent of single 5       women lack economic security and 81 percent of 6       households with single mothers live in economic inse-
7       curity. Significant barriers that survivors confront
8       include access to housing, transportation, and child 9       care. Ninety-two percent of homeless women have 10      experienced domestic violence, and more than 50 11      percent of such women cite domestic violence as the 12      direct cause for homelessness. Survivors are deprived 13      of their autonomy, liberty, and security, and face 14      tremendous threats to their health and safety.

15          (11) The Centers for Disease Control and Pre-
16      vention report that survivors of severe intimate part-17      ner violence lose nearly 8 million days of paid work, 18      which is the equivalent of more than 32,000 full-19      time jobs and almost 5,600,000 days of household
20      productivity each year. Therefore, women dispropor-21      tionately need time off to care for their health or to 22      find safety solutions, such as obtaining a restraining 23      order or finding housing, to avoid or prevent further 24      violence.

1           (12) Annual costs of intimate partner violence
2           are estimated to be more than $8,300,000,000. Ac-
3           cording to the Centers for Disease Control and Pre-4           vention, the costs of intimate partner violence
5           against women in 1995 exceeded an estimated 6           $5,800,000,000. These costs included nearly 7           $4,100,000,000 in the direct costs of medical and 8           mental health care and nearly $1,800,000,000 in the 9           indirect costs of lost productivity. These statistics 10          are generally considered to be underestimated be-11          cause the costs associated with the criminal justice 12          system are not included.

13          (13) Sixty-one percent of senior executives re-
14          cently surveyed said domestic violence has a harmful 15          effect on their company's productivity, and more 16          than 70 percent said domestic violence negatively af-
17          fects attendance. Seventy-eight percent of human re-18          sources professionals consider partner violence a 19          workplace issue. However, more than 70 percent of 20          United States workplaces have no formal program or 21          policy that addresses workplace violence, let alone
22          domestic violence. In fact, only four percent of em-
23          ployers provided training on domestic violence.

24          (14) Studies indicate that one of the best pre-25          dictors of whether a survivor will be able to stay

1 away from his or her abuser is the degree of his or 2 her economic independence. However, domestic vio-
3 lence, dating violence, sexual assault, and stalking
4 often negatively impact a survivor's ability to main-5 tain employment.

6 (15) Abusers frequently seek to exert financial 7 control over their partners by actively interfering 8 with their ability to work, including preventing their 9 partners from going to work, harassing their part-
10 ners at work, limiting their partners' access to cash 11 or transportation, and sabotaging their partners'
12 child care arrangements.

13 (16) Economic abuse refers to behaviors that 14 control an intimate partner's ability to acquire, use, 15 and maintain access to, money, credit, ownership of 16 assets, or access to governmental or private financial 17 benefits, including defaulting on joint obligations 18 (such as school loans, credit card debt, mortgages, 19 or rent). Other forms of such abuse may include pre-20 venting someone from attending school, threatening 21 to or actually terminating employment, controlling 22 or withholding access to cash, checking, or credit ac-23 counts, and attempting to damage or sabotage the 24 creditworthiness of an intimate partner, including 25 forcing an intimate partner to write bad checks,

1       forcing an intimate partner to default on payments
2       related to household needs, such as housing, or fore-
3       ing an intimate partner into bankruptcy.

4               (17) The Patient Protection and Affordable
5       Care Act (Public Law 111–148), and the amend-
6       ments made by such Act, ensures that most health 7       plans must cover preventive services, including 8       screening and counseling for domestic violence, at no
9       additional cost. In addition, it prohibits insurance 10      companies from discriminating against patients for 11      preexisting conditions, like domestic violence.

12              (18) Yet, more can be done to help survivors.
13      Federal law in effect on the day before the date of 14      enactment of this Act does not explicitly—

15                   (A) authorize survivors of domestic vio-
16                   lence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalk-17                   ing to take leave from work to seek legal assist-18                   ance and redress, counseling, or assistance with 19                   safety planning activities;

20                   (B) address the eligibility of survivors of 21                   domestic violence, dating violence, sexual as-22                   sault, or stalking for unemployment compensa-23                   tion;

1 (C) provide job protection to survivors of
2 domestic violence, dating violence, sexual as-
3 sault, or stalking;

4 (D) prohibit insurers and employers who 5 self-insure employee benefits from discrimi-
6 nating against survivors of domestic violence, 7 dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking and 8 those who help them in determining eligibility, 9 rates charged, and standards for payment of 10 claims; or

11 (E) prohibit insurers from disclosing infor-
12 mation about abuse and the location of the sur-
13 vivors through insurance databases and other 14 means.

15 (19) This Act aims to empower survivors of do-16 mestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or 17 stalking to be free from violence, hardship, and con-
18 trol, which restrains basic human rights to freedom
19 and safety in the United States.

 18 WOMEN

19 SEC. 901. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

20 (a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

21 (1) American Indians and Alaska Natives are—

22 (A) 2.5 times more likely to experience a 23 violent crime; and

24 (B) at least 2 times more likely to experi-
 25 ence a rape or sexual assault crime;

1           (2) 84.3 percent of American Indian and Alas-
2 ka Native women have experienced violence in their 3 lifetimes;

4           (3) according to the report of the Indian Law
5 and Order Commission under section 15(f) of the 6 Indian Law Enforcement Reform Act (25 U.S.C.
7 2812(f)), Alaska Native women are overrepresented
8 in the domestic violence victim population by 250
9 percent;

10          (4) the vast majority of American Indian and 11 Alaska Native victims, 96 percent of female victims
12 and 89 percent of male victims, report being victim-13 ized by a non-Indian;

14          (5) Indian Tribes exercising special domestic vi-
15 olence criminal jurisdiction over non-Indians re-
16 stored in the Violence Against Women Reauthoriza-
17 tion Act of 2013 (Public Law 113–4; 127 Stat. 54)
18 have reported significant successes holding violent 19 offenders accountable for crimes of domestic vio-
20 lence, dating violence, and civil protection order vio-
21 lations;

22          (6) Tribal prosecutors for Indian Tribes exer-
23 cising special domestic violence criminal jurisdiction
24 report that the majority of domestic violence cases 25 involve children as either witnesses or victims;

1           (7) the Department of Justice reports that 2 American Indian and Alaska Native children suffer 3 exposure to violence at 1 of the highest rates in the 4 United States;

5           (8) childhood exposure to violence has imme-6 diate and long-term effects, including—

7               (A) increased rates of altered neurological 8 development;

9               (B) poor physical and mental health;

10              (C) poor school performance;

11              (D) substance abuse; and 12              (E) overrepresentation in the juvenile jus-

13 tice system;

14           (9) according to the Centers for Disease Con-15 trol and Prevention, homicide is—

16               (A) the third leading cause of death among 17 American Indian and Alaska Native women be-18 tween the ages of 10 and 24; and 19               (B) the fifth leading cause of death for 20 American Indian and Alaska Native women be-21 tween the ages of 25 and 34;

22           (10) on some reservations, Indian women are 23 murdered at rates of more than 10 times the na-
24 tional average;

1           (11) according to the 2017 report by the De-
2           partment of Justice entitled “Indian Country Inves-
3           tigations and Prosecutions”, 66 percent of criminal 4           prosecutions for crimes in Indian country that 5           United States attorneys declined to prosecute in-6           volved assault, murder, and sexual assault;

7           (12) investigation into cases of missing and 8           murdered Indian women is made difficult for Tribal 9           law enforcement agencies due to a lack of resources, 10          such as—

11                 (A) necessary training, equipment, or 12                 funding;

13                 (B) interjurisdictional and interagency co-14                 operation; and

15                 (C) appropriate laws in effect;

16          (13) domestic violence calls are among the most 17          dangerous calls that law enforcement receives;

18          (14) the complicated jurisdictional scheme that 19          exists in Indian country—

20                 (A) requires a high degree of commitment 21                 and cooperation among Tribal, Federal, and 22                 State law enforcement officials;

23                 (B) impacts public safety in Indian com-24                 munities; and

1 (C) according to Tribal justice officials,
2 has been increasingly exploited by criminals;

3 (15) restoring and enhancing local and Tribal 4 capacity to address violence against women provides 5 for greater local control, safety, accountability, and 6 transparency; and

7 (16) Indian Tribes with restrictive settlement
8 Acts and Indian Tribes located in States with au-9 thority under the amendments made by the Act of 10 August 15, 1953 (67 Stat. 590, chapter 506), such
